

ISSUE 1

crazy f*cking times

unobstructed

contents

3 // PAPERKIDVISION

5 // where's the music?

7 // jade's isolation days

9 // the stress in progress

AGEFEVERDREAMS
TEENAGEFEVERDREAMS
AGEFEVERDREAMS
TEENAGEFEVERDREAMS

where is the music?

excited to release my freshman EP.
its been a rollercoaster but its finally happening.

dont know when its dropping // some time this year.
you will hear more about it soon :)

but really soon.
+
music videos

what have i been doing during these crazy f*cking times?
i've been in my room
making music
trying to make these days fly by i miss hanging out with my friends
it's been a struggle to come through with the projects that i had planned, they will come through eventually.

what's the plan?
drop 2 projects
make merch
make a short film
collab with an artist i look up to

TEENAGEFEVERDREAMS
TEENAGEFEVERDREAMS
TEENAGEFEVERDREAMS
TEENAGEFEVERDREAMS

what have i been listening to lately

Jean Dawson - Clear Bones
KennyHoopla - Sore Loser
Postcardboy - Dazed
Baby Keem - Honest
SUNDOWNER - 62 STOW
osquinn - i dont want that many friends in the first place

what is PAPERKID?????

paperkid is a fictional character.
a STORY about an insecure//narcissistic kid.

SOON ON YOUR NEAREST INTERNET CONNECTED DEVICE
SOON ON YOUR NEAREST INTERNET CONNECTED DEVICE
SOUNDTRACK BY TEENAGEFEVERDREAMS

Jade's Isolation Days

PART ONE

Quarantine part one was either a blur, a nightmare or just another extended lonely, but peaceful, saturday night to most of us. I still had exams during the first Covid outbreak, which made those few months extra confusing and just a whole emotional blur for me, not only because of the exams, but because I still wanted to experience those last moments at highschool with friends while I still could, which I unfortunately couldn't experience and won't get back.

Many people don't see this as something that "deep", but I'm someone who gets easily attached to anyone who enters my life, doesn't matter how close I am or was to this person. But this is a part of growing up I guess...just gotta let go of the past and the people (who don't care as much as I care about them) to focus on the future...whatever that is :$. Didn't wanna sound like dumb over-emotional fake deep me on here but hey...yea that's all.

PART TWO

Quarantine part two has been a very peaceful experience so far. I consider myself a creative person, but at the same time not since my energy level reaches rockbottom whenever I wanna do something creative or I just get irritated or drained very fast, so it usually doesn't really go as planned.

But this time, I actually taught myself a few new things and even got back to drawing/painting again, which I find very exciting since I wanted to use my gap-year to reconnect with my creative side after a few YEARS. I'm happy that my body is letting me express myself creatively lately and I hope it stays like that!!!

I'm not the best at drawing and all that, but art doesn't have any rules!!!

And that's the fun part of it all...just figuring out your own style and all. Doing all of this stuff, including embroidery, really makes me want to make hoodies and stuff in the near-future...don't know if my fear of failure is gonna get to me, but we'll see!

Songs I've Been Playing On Repeat:

- Ooga Booga by Jean Dawson (+ his whole discography)
- Bottle Rocket by Jimi Somewhere
- Iphone by Rico Nasty
- Rock n Roll Star by KKB
- Peroxide by Ecco2k

What I Got Into During Quarantine:

- Embroidery is one of the things I got into now and it's truly relaxing, I really enjoy doing it!!!!
- Painting/drawing (again)
- Cooking shows somehow
- Writing

What I'm Planning On doing Now:

Really wanna invest my time into art and embroidery and stuff. Maybe wanna do something with those things and put them on shirts or something or make stickers/patches..i don't know...something! Also wanna invest my time more into music.

What I've learned so far:

- To appreciate everything you have while you still have it...kinda cliché/dramatic, but I did have to deal with that thought/realization for a while and I've been appreciating everything around me a lot more lately.
- Focus more on the people who love you than the ones who don't love you. My brain keeps focusing on all the negative things in life, my past mistakes and past comments about me. I'm slowly trying to focus on all the good things in life to stop feeling bad about myself all the time. Just wanna see myself do better to feel better.

Thank you for reading my piece and checking out my shitty art, appreciate it.
Let me know what you think of this magazine thingy and/or my piece!
Love, Killvjade aka JADED

THE STRESS TO PROGRESS

On Repeat:

- *Tennis - Need Your Love
- *Zaia - DEMONS
- *Peach Tree Rascals - Plus
- *Grady - CAN YOU HEAR THE MOON
- *ROLE MODEL - blind
- *Hope Tala - Lovestained
- *Remi Wolf - Down The Line

This Year I still want to:

1. Learn how to cook 10 new meals
2. learn 3 new skate tricks
3. make an EP
4. get a volderende for eco...(help me pls)
5. have a sleep over with my friend

Since the quarantine started a lot has change in yet so little time. People that you know & saw on a daily basis, now if lucky you've seen and hung out with a friend a few times in these past 6 months. It has had its impacts and certainly a big impact on me. So distracted by the people and events that surround me day by day all these years and now left without any distraction, I realize that I do not know who I am, nor where I belong between friends and family. My mind twisted in confusion and doubt of my own value, I do what i now regret. i push away from those who only seek to help me.

But why do i push so hard? Is it because of my fear of not being able to overcome myself dissapointing those who seek to help me? Or is it the fear of being looked at as weak and having my own insecurities used against me? Nonetheless, after using the time alone I had, I came to understand that everyone has their own faults that we all have learn to live with. Even after I pushed, when I came back to my friends they still were still waiting on me, with open arms.

So to anyone that might read this.

Its okay to make mistakes and it's okay to take your time these faults we all live with are fixed one day at a time.

but this we have to do, to overcome ourselves and to progress further on.

by Richard